

Input: Tiny Tim

Output: lived in a tiny house with his mother and his brother.

Tiny Time was always nervous

About people walking past him in the street, so he wouldn't stand staring at them.

He'd wince if somebody walked past him, only to have his hand shake as he approached. If you ever saw a cat nervous enough to wince in a movie, you know what I'm talking about.

Input: Tiny Tim is

Output: not Tiny Tim, but is in reality a gigantic, old man with a monstrous chin.

He had an enormous heart, with which he struggled to keep together. He has thoughts of sending his kind to misery on the cross, but he is resolved never to do it.

Input: A Merry Christmas, Uncle! God save you!

Output: Christmas, Uncle, may it be ever so Satisfactory to you!

Input: Devil, cease;

Output: *For,
I am thy creature, and thou art my lord and king.*

*Why, Victor, do you stifle, as if to taunt,
The voice of reason? I entreat you not to spurn me.
Remember that I am thy creature, and thy happiness is bound up in my being and in my lives. Begone! I am free;
My conscience is pure. Begone, or let us try our strength in a fight,
In which one must fall.*

Input: They hated me / they abhorred me

Output: *and besieged me, alleging various lies;
but I would not listen to their tales and was silent as to their malicious machinations.*

, and

*Tears streamed from my eyes; I thought them to be wanderings of night; one by one the trees were cut down, and i beheld
The bare trees and the black earth.
I remembered the promises of fatherland
And vowed vengeance;*

Input: The monster is beautiful

Output:

; she is

Muscular and full of soul. Yet, like Adam, she was not created for sloth and oblivion.

She was fashioned for strength and war.

Be careful, for she can pierce even your adamant breastplate with her steel teeth.
